Weaknesses

- Allows providers to care for up to five children for pay without being licensed.
- Exempt providers receiving subsidies do not have to undergo background checks.
- Check of sex offender registries and juvenile records are not explicitly included in background checks.
- Does not require providers to have completed a high school education or GED.
- Providers are not required to have any training before they begin working with children.
- Providers are not required to have any specific toys and materials designed to promote learning. The only stipulation is that they have materials that are culturally sensitive.
- Providers are required to offer only three of the eight learning activities and literacy opportunities - planned learning activities, active play and self-help skills.

Strengths

- Inspects FCC providers before licensing, when there are complaints, and at least three times a year.
- Both routine inspections/visits and those conducted when there is a complaint are unannounced.
- Licensed FCC providers, their substitutes and assistants are required to have background checks.
- Providers are required to communicate with parents about the care of their children, allow parents access to their homes at all times and have written policies for parents.
- Providers must follow seven of 10 health requirements - handwashing, meals/snacks, immunizations, exclusion of ill children, administration of medications, diapering/toileting and home sanitation.
- Regulations address seven of 10 safety requirements - discipline, crib safety, protection from water hazards, fire drills/emergency plans, playground surfaces, supervision and transportation.
- A single provider can only care for two children under 24 months at one time.

Recommendations

- Require providers caring for one or more unrelated children to be regulated.
- Conduct background checks on family members over age 12 and exempt providers receiving subsidies.
- Use sex offender and juvenile registries to conduct background checks.
- Require providers to have a high school diploma or GED and a CDA, college courses in early childhood education, or an AA degree within three years of licensing.
- Require 40 hours of initial training in first aid, CPR, child development, child abuse prevention, learning activities, health and safety, child guidance, and business practices.
- Require providers to have specific toys and materials to promote all areas of development.
- Require providers to read to children, introduce mathematical concepts, offer creative activities, offer dramatic play and limit the use of television.
