2012 State of Small Family Child Care Homes in Maryland

Strengths

- All family child care homes caring for one or more unrelated children are required to be licensed.
- All family child care homes are inspected once a year, including health, safety or fire inspections.
- Routine and complaint based inspections are unannounced.
- Family child care providers are required to undergo a background check that includes using fingerprints for state and federal records check and a check of the child abuse and neglect registry. A check of the sex offender registry is not required in regulation.
- Child care licensing staff are required to have a bachelor's degree in early childhood education or related field.
- Family child care providers are required to have 38 hours of initial training including emergency preparation, CPR and first aid.
- Forty-five hours of preservice training is required for those approved for care in homes with four children under the age of 2 years.
- Inspection and complaint reports are available online.
- Health standards address 10 of 10 basic standards.
- Safety standards address nine of 10 basic standards. Providers are not required to address outdoor playground surfaces.
- Providers are permitted to care for no more than two infants and toddlers when older children are present.

Weaknesses

- Child care licensing staff have an average caseload of 115 programs.
- Providers are not required to have a high school degree or GED.
- Providers are required to complete only 12 hours of annual training plus CPR and first aid.

Recommendations

- Reduce the caseload for licensing inspectors.
- Include a check of the sex offender registry in background checks in regulation as well as in practice.
- Require providers to have a high school degree/GED and complete a Child Development Associate (CDA) credential or higher within three years.
- Increase the annual training requirements for providers to 24 hours, including CPR and first aid renewal.
